CORONAVIRUS (COVID-19)

The CDC activated its Emergency Ops Center in January of 2020 to deal with the increasing threat of the new virus, COVID-19. Since this time, Americans have been warned to prepare for potential community spread of the disease. However, awareness and prevention are key to reducing possible exposure.

As with past public health threats, viruses such as SARS-CoV, MERS-CoV and others, there are measures that can be taken to help keep people healthy and safe. These measures include frequent hand washing, using hand sanitizers, avoiding touching your face and avoiding close contact with people including avoiding shaking hands.

The news is rapidly changing as more is being learned about this new virus. To stay updated, visit the CDC website at <https://www.cdc.gov/>

Dependable, Professional Field Service Team

Tradebe’s highly skilled personnel are among the most well-trained and best-equipped disaster response teams available in our industry today.

In absence of vaccines or medications, one of the most effective ways communities and businesses can help mitigate the spread of infectious diseases is by contracting a professional environmental services company to perform Bio-Decontamination of Hospitals, Labs, Offices, Factories, Schools, Universities, Warehouses and other buildings where contamination is suspected or confirmed.

Tradebe’s team is experienced and equipped to decontaminate touch-surfaces using chemicals that are known to kill these potentially-deadly viruses removing the contaminants and disposing and destroying of the hazardous materials removed from the site.

Our goal is simple:

ensure your problems are solved safely and efficiently so that you can focus on your team’s well-being while reducing the disruption and downtime of your operations.

Dependability you can count on.
Experience you can trust.
